Education

Ph.D. Anthropology, University of Colorado-Boulder - 2005
Dissertation Title: The Energetics of Lactation Among Tropical Horticulturists in the Brazilian Amazon
Chair: Darna L. Dufour

M.A. Anthropology, University of Colorado, Boulder
Master's Thesis Title: Anthropometric characteristics of pregnant women in Cali, Columbia and their relation to infant birth weight
Chair: Darna L. Dufour

B.S. Biology, University of New Mexico

Fields of Specialization

Nutritional Anthropology, Food Security, Reproductive Health, Breastfeeding, Poverty and Health, Biocultural Approaches, Political Ecology, Life History Theory, Latin America, Nicaragua, Brazil, Amazon.

Academic Appointments

Associate Professor, The Ohio State University, 2012 – present
Assistant Professor, The Ohio State University, 2006 – 2012
Lecturer, University of Colorado-Boulder, January 2006 – June 2006

Affiliations

Graduate Seminar: Modern Human Physical Variation (Anthropology 7701)
Graduate Seminar: Writing and Publishing in Anthropology (Anthropology 8827)

Program Development

B.A. and B.S. Degree in Medical Anthropology, The Ohio State University. In 2017, I developed the Medical Anthropology undergraduate degree program in the Anthropology Department with the goal of providing a solid foundation in anthropological theory and methods for students bound for professional schools (medicine, nursing, public health) and graduate training in applied medical anthropology. The program was unanimously approved in the fall 2017 and will be implemented in fall 2018.

Lecturer, Department of Anthropology, University of Colorado – Boulder (2006)
Human Origins II

Instructor, Department of Anthropology, University of Colorado – Boulder (2000-2005)
Introduction to Physical Anthropology I
Introduction to Physical Anthropology II

Instructor, Biological Sciences Initiative (Howard Hughes Medical Institute), University of Colorado - Boulder (2001, 2005)
-Taught courses in biological anthropology (K-12). Program focused on encouraging minority and female students in science by bringing hands-on science lab experiences into kindergarten through high school classrooms in the Denver/Boulder area (nutrition, ecology, paleontology, human evolution), August 2004

Lead Graduate Teaching Assistant, Department of Anthropology, University of Colorado Boulder (2001, 2004), was fully responsible for teaching lab courses, overseeing the lab and training other graduate students to teach the lab course
-Laboratory in Physical Anthropology II

Graduate Teaching Assistant, Department of Anthropology, University of Colorado – Boulder (1997-2000), was the instructor of record and fully responsible for teaching all lab courses
-Laboratory in Physical Anthropology I
-Laboratory in Physical Anthropology II

Graduate Teaching Assistant, Department of Anthropology, University of Colorado – Boulder (1996-1999), assisted with grading, worked with undergraduate and graduate students
-Quantitative Methods in Anthropology
-The Human Animal
-Introduction to Physical Anthropology I
-Human Ecology-Biological Aspects
